HONGKONG DEFEAT SHANGHAI IN SOCCER INTERPORT BY 4 TO 3

SHAUGHNESSY CLEARED BY PRIVY COUNCIL

Charged With Fraud
As Trustee.

THE DAVIS MILLIONS.

(Reuter's Special Service)

London, Yesterday.
The decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on the long and costly litigation arising out of the estate of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, baronet, Canadian millionaire, was rendered today in a document consisting of 37 printed pages.

The case, which took 50 days in the Canadian courts, was an attempt by the widow of Sir Mortimer and a son by a former marriage, to remove Lord Shaughnessy and Mister Repper from the position of executors and trustees.

Grave charges of fraud were made, which failed in the Canadian courts and have now failed again before the Privy Council. The judgment is one of the longest ever delivered in connection with an estate and involves the sum of about £2,500,000. The appellants, Mr. Mortimer Davis, married Rosie Dolly, one of the famous Dolly Sisters stage dancers and singers. Lord Shaughnessy, reputedly one of the wealthiest men in Canada, was a close friend of the late Sir Mortimer, with whom he was interested in several big enterprises.

LONDON FEARS NATION CAN'T PAY U.S. DEBT

Exchange Machinery
Out Of Order.

PARIS IN DILEMMA.

London, Yesterday.
President Hoover's note has in no way allayed the apprehensiveness in London in respect to the war debt situation. The note cannot be said to invite detailed facts justifying a further suspension of debt payments by Great Britain to America, the next of which is due December 15. On the contrary, it indicates America's willingness to accept any case for the suspension.

Press opinions are divided as to whether any means for making the payment exist in the dislocated condition of the exchange machinery.

"The White Chapel" a great short story by the popular novelist Jules Lemaitre will appear in to-morrow's China Mail, continuing the series of short stories which are published daily in Hong Kong's oldest and brightest newspaper. Columns on Literature, Art and Drama, Engineering and Aviation, Motorcars, Cinema and Children's Topics, also appear during each week.

Police Raid Uncovers Big Supply Of Bombs.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Buenos Aires, Yesterday.
A thousand bombs were discovered by police in a raid upon the living quarters of suspected anarchists today. Police believe the bombs were connected with a terrorist plot discovered on November 14, when several anarchists were arrested.

ARMAMENT AND DEBT PROPOSALS

Vital Matters Before
Europe's Cabinets.

FIVE POWER PARLEY.

Geneva, Yesterday.
While Sir John Simon is hastening to London for the Cabinet session to consider the war debt crisis, Herr von Neurath, German representative at Geneva, is rushing to Berlin and M. Paul Boncour, French spokesman, to Paris to discuss disarmament problems. In Paris, it will probably be decided whether or not Premier Herriot will go to Geneva next week to participate in the proposed Five Power Conversations, which Premier MacDonald is also likely to attend.

Japan, it is reliably learned, will have some fresh proposals to this Conference. Her suggestions, it is reported, will consist of a programme for the amalgamation of the Anglo-American plan, will include a large reduction of global warship tonnage, as well as the specific tonnage of battleships, the reduction of the size and armament of cruisers and the complete suppression of aircraft carriers.

Meanwhile, the discussion of the Manchurian situation has been interrupted at Geneva by the Japanese objection to the matter being laid before a specially convened Assembly. Mr. Matsukata has laid the matter before the Tokyo Government and until the Council of the League reassembles on Tuesday no further activity will be apparent.

NEW GOVERNOR OF IRELAND

Shop-Keeper Named To Vice-Regal Post.

London, Yesterday.
His Excellency Daniel Buckley of Mayo, has been appointed Governor-General of the Irish Free State.

His Excellency is a shop-keeper and was a member of the first and second Dail.
He was defeated in the 1923 election, but is now a member for Kildare.

Former Governor-General McNell resigned his post following what he considered an insulting conduct towards his office on the part of Free State Ministers. These refused to apologise and he made good his threat and resigned. Governor McNell was not invited to the official reception of the new Legate in Dublin, recently.
It was rumoured at one time that Mr. de Valera himself contemplated taking the Governorship. — Reuter.

Thousands of hunger marchers from all parts of England arrived at Hyde Park for the huge demonstration directed against the Means Test and economy reductions. Some of the marchers receiving food and drink on arrival at the park.

OPPOSES WHEAT IMPORTS.

Canton, Yesterday.
It is impossible to say how many members of the Central Executive and Central Supervisory Committees in Canton will proceed to Nanking to take part in the Third Plenary Session nor what resolutions will be submitted to the Session, declared Mr. Chow Lu, a member of the Kuomintang Southwest Executive Committee in an interview today.

"Our views are the same as stated on previous occasions, namely, cleaning up the Communists and resisting Japanese aggression," he said. "These are the most pressing problems now confronting the country, and resolutions representing the views of the leaders in the Southwest are based on these two points."

JAPAN SUBMITS TO GENEVA

Assembly To Discuss
Lytton Report.

Tokyo, Yesterday.
The Japanese delegation to Geneva has been instructed to attend the League Assembly but to oppose the application of Article Fifteen of the League Covenant to the dispute over Manchuria.
The Council of the League wished to put the Lytton Report before the Assembly, but until instructed by his Government, Mr. Matsukata, Japan's Chief delegate, would not agree to the proceeding.
The Council has been adjourned until next Tuesday, but will probably pass the Lytton Report on to the Assembly at once when it is reconvened. The Assembly must be summoned to a special session for the discussion.

SUTCLIFFE'S BIRTHDAY CENTURY

M.C.C. Lead By 66
With 6 Wickets To Fall.

OLDFIELD HAS INFLUENZA.

Sydney, Yesterday.

The M.C.C. at the conclusion of today's play are 66 runs ahead of the New South Wales first innings total with six wickets in hand.

A crowd of 35,000 were present after lunch to see the M.C.C. continue their innings at 103 for no wicket, and witnessed Sutcliffe record his 38th birthday century. The famous Yorkshireman was undefeated at the close of play with 157 to his credit. His innings, which has now lasted five hours, was featured by masterly cutting and off-driving. He has hit nineteen boundaries.

In partnership with R. E. S. Wyatt, the vice-captain of the side, Sutcliffe participated in a first wicket partnership of 140. The Warwickshire captain continued 72 in 120 minutes in a bright innings after a slow start. He hit a five and eight boundaries.

The Nawab of Pataudi hit up 61 in 96 minutes as the result of bright batting in the latter period of his innings. He hit half a dozen boundaries.

D. R. Jardine made a very sporting gesture when he allowed New South Wales to play the experienced wicket-keeper, H. S. Love, as a substitute for W. A. Oldfield, who was suddenly stricken with influenza during the game.

Full scores were as follows:—

N.S.W.: 273 (D. G. Bradman 18, J. H. Fingleton 119 not out, S. McCabe 67, G. O. Allen 6 for 69, Tate 4 for 58.
M.C.C.: 339 for 4 (Sutcliffe 157 not out, R. E. S. Wyatt 72, Nawab of Pataudi 61). — Reuter.

The following was the result:—
1. Hypostyle (Richardson) at 20-1.
2. Gulcard (Weston) at 8 to 1.
3. Isthmus (Nevett) at 7 to 2.

Won by 1½ lengths; ¾ length. Codrill (Lane) was a last minute withdrawal. The winner's price dropped from 28-1 to 20-1, Gulcard from 25-1 to 8 to 1, and Isthmus from 100-8 to 7-2. — Reuter.

Educational Reformation In Kwangtung Approved

Canton, Yesterday.
To improve education in Kwangtung, the Southwest Educational Reform Committee has organized an Editorial and Translating Board, and all the resolutions of the Committee have been approved by the Southwest Political Council.
Members of the Board will revise all textbooks to suit the conditions in that province. Textbooks used in middle and primary schools will be simplified. Technical subjects will be scrutinized by the Editors of the board.

PLAN TO BLAST ROCKS IN YANGTZE GORGES.

Protection Of River Ships Contemplated By China.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Yesterday.
Major blasting operations among the Kung-ling-tan rocks, in the gorges of the Yangtze, 80 miles above Ichang, are now within measurable distance of accomplishment with the departure of Mr. Dixon, a mining engineer, on an inspection trip to the upper Yangtze River.

Mr. Dixon is retained by the Government to recommend as to the feasibility of removing rocks in the Gorges. Shipping circles are greatly interested by this tremendous project to improve navigation.

CANADA GRAIN POOL DEMANDS WORLD PARLEY

Seeking Stabilisation
Of Markets.

KEEN COMPETITION.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Calgary, Yesterday.
A request that the Dominion Government immediately convene a Wheat Conference was made in a resolution unanimously passed at the annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool. It is proposed that the leading wheat-producing countries attend the Conference, which it is hoped will lead to the stabilised wheat prices and solve the present marketing problem.

Never in the history of the wheat Pools has grain been so cheap as at present, and Canadian and American farmers are cutting their prices to the bone in a deadly competition for the world's markets.

The grain industry is vital to Canada's well-being, for millions are invested in the miles of prairie farms, and failure in a season means slack trade internationally for the whole year.

SARAZEN ACCEPTS COMPSTON'S WAGER

To Play Five Matches
At $100 Each.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Gene Sarazen, distinguished American professional golfer, has accepted the challenge from Archie Compston, English star, to play five thirty-six hole matches, each for $100 in England next year.

Compston has made a name for himself in match play. Sarazen, former Caddy, is considered by some to be as great a player as Bobby Jones. He has recently been Crowned American Open Champion.

His wife, too, is a golfer of repute.

HUSBAND'S FINDS WIFE'S BODY.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Portsmouth, Ohio, Yesterday.
The discovery of the body of his wife, led Mike Hama, a local resident, to reveal that she had disappeared three months ago with two strange men but he had not reported her to be missing because of his shame for her. The woman, Jennie Hama, was found nude by her husband. She was 45 years of age and the mother of five children. Her husband, a day labourer, had disappeared three months ago.

TALE OF MISSED CHANCES.

Shanghai, Yesterday.
Hong Kong recorded their first Interport soccer win on Shanghai soil when the Colony team today defeated the representative Shanghai team by 4 goals to 3. Cheng Shiu-hong, the right wing, scored twice, while Wong Mel-shum, his partner, added another, and Howe, the centre-forward, scored the winning goal.

A crowd of 15,000 spectators were present in fine weather when the game commenced under ideal conditions. Hong Kong fully deserved their success.

A. Howe.

they completely outplayed Shanghai, especially in the second half when the Colony forwards missed numerous golden opportunities.

The Shanghai team proved very disappointing. Carrying no fewer than three passengers, they faded out miserably after the interval, and were lucky to lose by only the odd goal.

Mullane and Strange proved staunch defenders and kicked strongly, but Pardoe, the visitor's vice-captain, was the outstanding player in defence. In the forward line Cheng Shiu-hong scored two excellent goals, while Howe ably led his line and scored the winning goal with a brilliant header.

LONDON
TOPICS

From Our Own Correspondent

November 6.

The City's Ward Clubs.

With the coming of autumn and winter the Ward Clubs of the City are getting ready for their seasonal round of lectures and social activities.

The club life of the City is very old. The Bread Street Club, for instance, which is one of the oldest—believed to have been founded by Sir Walter Raleigh—was at one time thought to be the earliest institution of its kind in England.

Outside the Ward Clubs there are several social coteries, such as the Bartholomew Club, that provide entertaining programmes
throughout the season.

One of the properties of this club is a large oaken tobacco box made from posts taken from the Old Smithfield Cattle Market.

An Oil "King."

Of the three leading oil "kings,"
Sir Henri Deterding, Lord Bearsted, and Sir John Cadman, only Sir John could be described as having become one by accident.

For Sir John Cadman's first love was science and the teaching of science, and at one time he was a professor at Birmingham University.

He is one of the kindest as well as the most able of men, and shares with his brother, Mr. James Cadman, who was until recently
Master of the North Staffordshire
Hunt, a gift for hospitality.

While Sir John Cadman is the chairman of Anglo-Persian, his brother is a coal-owner. Indeed, he has been described as a "model"
coal-owner, as he enjoys an enormous popularity with the men in his Cannock Chase collieries.

Lord Ebbisham's Prowess.

Lord Ebbisham, who is 64 years of age, captured his 100th wicket for the season during the cricket match played at Ashted on Saturday, when he took 6 wickets for 48 runs.

It was a match between the village club and Lord Ebbisham's team, which included A. P. F.
Chapman, G. T. S. Stephens, and the Rev. F. H. Gillingham. Lord
Ebbisham's team won.

Lord Ebbisham's son, by the way, Mr. R. R. Blades, is a member of Mr. H. G. Leveson-Gower's team, which is playing several matches at Gibraltar. The team left on Saturday for Gibraltar in company with the M.C.C. team which is going to Australia.

Lord Inchcape's Estate.

Lord Inchcape's will was made in October 1929—that is, before the slump in values of the last three years.

In estimating the residuary income such a fall in securities could not be taken into account, and on the figures of the estate now published it is difficult to see how the income left can be much more than £40,000 or £50,000.

Practically half of the £2,000,000 estate is taken by the Government in duty. Then there are the many legacies (including those to his captains and chief officers) to be deducted, as well as the value of his pictures and other similar assets which produce no income.

Obviously there can be left nothing like the £100,000 annuity Lord Inchcape originally intended for his wife.

Sir Philip Magnus

That veteran educationist, Sir Philip Magnus, is 90. Since he attended University College School, in London, of which he is probably the oldest living pupil, Sir Philip has held many important educational positions.

He was for thirty years superintendent of the Department of Technology at the City and Guilds London Institute, and men eminent in various walks of life to-day who were trained there will remember his vigorous personality and his wide acquaintance with educational matters.

Unlimited Liability

Lord Wolverton, who died recently was a man of many interests.
Yachting and a racing stable were among his hobbies.

His great pride, however, was in the famous banking houses of Glyn, Mills, Currie and Co., of which his forebear, Sir Richard Glyn, was the founder. The fortunes of the bank were laid in the partners' early espousal of the cause of railways.

When it was decided to register
the firm as a joint stock enterprise under the Companies Acts, such was the pride of Lord Wolverton and his partners that they made the unheard-of application to be registered as a company with unlimited liability.

Thus the partners retained all their personal responsibility to their customers while accepting the obligation to publish balance-sheets, and otherwise conform to the mandatory requirements of the company law.

Judge Holman Gregory

Judge Holman Gregory, who is regarded as the most likely successor to Sir Henry Dickens, K.C., the Common Sergeant of the City of London, has always taken a keen interest in the welfare of ex-convicts.

On several occasions he has publicly pressed for State assistance in providing employment for ex-convicts whose past misdeeds have been a barrier to their earning an honest living.

Though inclined to be rather curt in manner, Judge Gregory is always tolerant, and anxious to be a reformer as well as a judge.

Strange Sights

London has a number of the richer sort of foreign visitors, if one may judge by the luxurious cars in the Westend which bear strange number-plates.

The most splendid seen recently had its numerals in Arabic signs—a very different thing from what we have come to call Arabic numerals.

Crossing the road in front of that splendid Oriental barouche, oddly enough, was a young woman in trousers. But she was patently Occidental.

Her trousers were snuff-coloured, rather narrow, and with turned-up bottoms. She was wearing them with purple shoes (Louis Quinze heels), and was wrapped about with one of those fleecy coats which give the wearer the air of a nursery toy.

Her unconcealed coiffure was composed of those well-set waves which in film-land defy even the waves of the sea, should a shipwrecked heroine be providentially cast ashore on a desert island.

Fashions in Money

It is not supposed that many will have experienced the shortage of ten-shilling notes which has been reported, but if there be a shortage it may well be due to the export of the notes to Ireland for sweepstake tickets.

These "runs" on certain units of money occur from time to time.
Ten years ago it was discovered that we had not nearly enough halfpennies, which seemed rather strange until the Mint pointed out that three-halfpenny tram and bus fares had been introduced.

SCOTTISH DISTILLERS
PROGRESS.

Considerable discussion has been aroused by the statement that a large number of distillers in Scotland do not intend to open this season, owing to the existing large stocks in bond and the gradual decline in consumption, due to overtaxation.

The consumer of Scotch whisky,
however, need feel no nervousness about the situation. He is now getting and will continue to get even finer whisky than in pre-war days. Unlike so many other products, of which there has been over-production, the stocks of whisky now in bond are getting better and better, as they age. Many of the Highland malt whiskies largely used in the leading proprietary blends are now equivalent to finer liquors.

Scotch whisky, as shipped to China is now older and better than ever, and in 1933 will be older and better still.

Cockade Returns To Popularity

Veil Is Fashionable

(By The Hon. Mrs. C. W. Forester)

A STRIKING feature of the early veil. With the extreme front or side movement it is particularly needed, and also keeps the coiffure round a little to the right side, as it then easier to wear, but the new movement is towards the front. The shape is placed on the back of the head, then the wide space over the forehead is filled in with many choux of ribbon, velvet flowers, or soft tufts of shaded ostrich feather. The latter is charming for a formal shape in black velvet or felt. Ruby-red, the new shade, could compose the feather trimming with the black velvet. Another front trimming consists of curlew-like of green silk ribbon across the front of a cap in stitched green felt. The trimming itself is in a lighter tone of green.

No milliner makes two hats alike. A violent tilt to the right side, almost concealing the eye entirely, is shown in a tomato-coloured velvet pull-on hat of Robin Hood shape, lined with dark brown felt. On the left side is a felt bow.

Another new shape is worn at the very trying angle perched up on the top of the head, rather in the style of the late "minette." This has a kind of folded beaver crown but high, and a line of narrow fur straight round. It shows plenty of hair at the left side and back, and though so smartly poised, one feels a strong inclination to pull it down in the more comfortable modern manner! Still, this perched pose is very new to-day, although a millinery mode of long ago.

Velvet Attractive. Nearly every woman looks well in velvet, and most becoming are the sports caps of ribbed corduroy velvets in Autumn shades to match suits or cardigans of cord-velvet. I think nearly all the smaller formal shapes can be made much easier to wear by adding the fashionable look. It is also most comfortable.

For the front or side ornaments there may be a dog in china or a bird.

Good For Travel.

China buttons and rings of china with a ribbon pulled through make another simple decoration for a felt sailor, or the cloche. The cloche shape, small and large, is by no means forsaken. It always comes back after a short interval. Like the beret, it can be used for everyday occasions, and above all is most comfortable for a long day by car or train.

The modern woman appreciates comfort. That is why I do not think the "perched-up" hats can have a long reign. It is difficult to imagine, however well they fit, that they can be so cosy to wear as the pull-on affairs.

There is a very small boater shape in two shades of velvet that is certainly a surprise and far more satisfactory than its predecessor in straw. This is worn well on one side in much the same way, but a veil is an immense improvement.

While there is nothing more becoming to very dark or white hair than the new ruby or raspberry colour, gummetal grey is the smartest note in velvet or felt, and is a little newer than cerise or rose. A great deal of dark brown will be worn, and here the brown mesh veil, with a darker chenille spot, looks wonderfully well. Black and white is as much the choice as ever, and will be seen in the fur alliances of Winter caps.

Felt and Fabric.

Felt and fabric will be very much to the fore, but the felts used are superlative in quality and lighter than straws. Ribbed effects in all sorts of new crepes or wool-silk fabrics will be seen. Mid-season berets have smart scarves and gloves to match. These are a very pleasing finish to the Autumn ensemble and can be worn on those "muggy" days when furs seem overpowering!

The second collections will spring a few surprises. The stitched and goffered sports hats are becoming, if velvets in Autumn shades to match suits or cardigans of cord-velvet. I think nearly all the smaller formal shapes can be made much easier to wear by adding the fashionable look. It is also most comfortable.

From Grande-Toilette To Cinema Gown

A LOVELY evening creation gives the dress artists an opportunity of proclaiming their skill in fabric, cut, and line. There are many beautiful examples in the London and Paris collections this winter, for it is a season of velvet, satin, failles, lamo, and every sort of exquisite material," writes the Hon. Mrs. C. W. Forester in the Daily Telegraph.

Such stuffs as are in no way suitable for the "little frock." Yet on account of force of circumstances and restricted incomes, a practical smartness must be provided for the newer and less formal entertainments. Models that have to do duty for all sorts of occasions originally came the title of the demi-toilette and then cocktail clothes. Now such a gown is frankly termed a "cinema frock," and can be worn at bridge, tea, dance, and cinema dinner.

Crinkly-crepe and a narrow, soft corduroy-velvet are new and smart for the cinema style. The thin woollen frock and the bold pattern wool-lace, too, are good for simple gowns that have to face day as well as night lighting.

The gown of face-cloth is very new for evening, and in rose or blue can be so easily worn under a long coat.

A pretty cloth Princess frock of cerise has buttons down the front and on the long, tight sleeves; the buttons are in dull silver, just a deep "v" at the neck shows a tucker and bow of lace. There is, too, a soft, shaped scarf of narrow striped ring-velvet, that is worn as a scarf with the fur coat, but which can also form the evening cape.

The chief point of these cloth frocks is that they can be adapted to various evening entertainments. Some have their long sleeves movable from above the elbow, which is cooler for dancing; but the majority of useful evening frocks show the long-fitting sleeve.

There has been a firm stand against shining fabrics. The generality of materials this winter, velvet, crepe, and satin, show the mat surface. But I have seen some glistening velvet, very like the old panne, and one or two exclusive houses are very fond of mixing the mat and cre surfaces.

Wonderfully good style is expressed in dull-faced fabrics, especially those rich in quality; they give the impression of striving after superb simplicity, preferring the best, but having no wish to dazzle beholders.

Last Spring we decided that the popular shopping district of the future will be in Kowloon. We looked about and took space which we considered to be ideal for the Jade Tree needs. Now we have decided that it is a mistake to divide stocks, so we have taken additional space in Kowloon. Here we have light, air, space to show our merchandise properly — and best of all an overhead that will admit of our selling the well-known high quality Jade Tree merchandise at the low prices at which we want to sell it.

Everyone arrives in Kowloon. Everyone leaves from Kowloon. An increasing number of people are coming to live in Kowloon. Hong Kong people attend various social functions here, they play golf at Fanling: We think they will also shop in Kowloon — when they know the many advantages of it.

We invite them all to come in and see our new premises. Drop in for a cup of tea on the way home from golf — or work — and leisurely do the shopping that would otherwise be a task to carry over for another day.

NAVY OVERWHELM RECREIO

ATHLETIC & BORDERERS RECORD WINS

HARDY HEADS GOAL-SCORERS

RECREIO JUNIOR ORDERED OFF IN GAME AGAINST SIGNALS.

THE NAVY EASILY ACCOUNTED FOR THE RECREIO IN THE ONLY PREMIER LEAGUE GAME OF THE DAY, AND SHOULD HAVE SCORED MORE THAN FIVE GOALS. THE RECREIO HAVE NOW CONCEDED 52 GOALS IN EIGHT GAMES.

In the Second Division the Athletic and the Borderers both recorded victories and have now a clear advantage in the race for the Championship. The Artillery are, however, still in the running and yesterday they ran riot at the expense of a weakened Signals eleven, Hardy scoring four times to head the goal-scoring list for the day.

The Third Division provided a tense drawn struggle between potential champions in the R.A.S.C. and St. Joseph's. The Lincolns won, and, with the Saints dropping a point, the newcomers to the league are only one point in arrears with a game in hand. By an odd goal win over the Recreio the Signals advanced four places in the table. During this game Figueredo, the Recreio player, was ordered off the field for dangerous play.

NAVY FORWARDS MISS OPPORTUNITIES.

Recreio Again Trounced.

(By Spot Kick.)

THE only first division game down for decision took place at the Railway ground and resulted in an easy victory for the Navy over the Recreio by five clear goals.

The game was very uninteresting, most of the play taking part in the Recreio half; in fact, the Navy goalkeeper was called upon to handle but three times. At no time were the Navy seriously extended, and the defence, on the few occasions the Recreio forwards got away, had no trouble in returning the ball to the Recreio goalmouth.

Although spooned throughout by their halves, the Navy forwards gave a poor display, even allowing for the splendid resistance put up by Ogley, Marques and Gutterres. Davies, though he scored twice, spoiled many good chances. Usher was at fault on many occasions and did not give Purkins the passes which this bustling forward requires. Mongar was the better of the two wingers.

The Navy halves, Robertson, Shirras and Robinson were outstanding. They kept the Recreio forwards well in check, each of them playing good football.

PENALTY MISSED. The Recreio side were weakened by the absence of Silva Netto and Fernandes, Ogley having to go in goal where he distinguished himself. The defence was over-worked, but they gave a very good account of themselves. The halves were literally run off their feet and could give little or no support to their forwards, of whom Santos and Rocha alone showed good football. Purkins opened the scoring, beating Ogley with a good shot. The Navy soon came again and Davies adding a second. The Navy dominated the game for Davies to increase the lead.

ANOTHER YACHTING PROTEST

Joss Against Jan In Anker Class.

MR. SKINNER'S WIN.

Though grey and misty there was a satisfactory weight of wind which suited the Anker Class yachts in their second championship race held yesterday afternoon. They made a beautiful start together, Jan, sailed by Mr. Krogh-Moe, getting well away, with Oslo, sailed by Mr. Bergaust, following close at hand. La Linda and Cicada were rather late.

The Quarry Bay mark boat with a strong flood tide running is always a ticklish proposition to round by reason of a patch of calm in that vicinity. Yesterday proved no exception and skill and judgment were required by the yachtsmen at this mark. Jan and Joss, sailed by Mr. J. Stanton, at this point, were driven by tide and wind to a friendly difference of opinion which is the subject of a protest by Joss against Jan, the latter having rounded first.

The race was not without further incident for Commander Cowland, sailing Isabel, after having been well up near the leaders at the Yacht Club mark turn had the misfortune to break his tiller. The Isabel then finished under a jury tiller, but naturally had to take last place.

AILSA WINS.

The 4th Championship race was also decided. In the "Y" and "W" class, the start was a fair one, Ailsa being first over the line followed closely by Wings. Ailsa, sailed by Major Lochner, kept the lead all through but had a great race with Speedwell, sailed by Major Stewart, which took second place on handicap by a margin of 45 seconds.

While making a poor start in the Gael class, Zephyr, which started 20 seconds late, won unmistakably by 7 minutes from Miss Patchett's boat, Toyette, sailed by Commander Stevenson. The weather seemed to suit Zephyr and her helmsman, Mr. F. E. Skinner, very well.

The start of the Handicap class race was interesting as Dorothea in lee berth to Rolla and Colleen was able to illustrate Dr. Manfred Curry's theory of the advantage of this position. Dorothea with Mr. R. Edwards at the helm, in the perfect lee position was able to give a dirty wind to the other two boats on her weather thereby herself heeling over and shooting ahead from the mysterious impulse so obtained. Argulla 2, with a new experimental mast was travelling well, but had the misfortune twice to carry away a jib which effectively put her out of the running.

"DUTCH" SMITH IN COLONY
Diving Exhibitions At North Point.

Mr. "Dutch" Smith and Mr. F. Simalka, two of the foremost high and spring board divers in the world arrived in Hong Kong yesterday on the Hakusan Maru, accompanied by their manager and coach, Mr. R. L. Summerill. Interviewed by the Sunday Herald, Mr. Summerill said that it was their intention to give two exhibitions of high and spring board diving in the Colony.

Mr. Summerill said that in Hong Kong there was no suitable pool or bathing situation where high diving could be performed, the deepest part of any bathing pier on the Causeway Road Bay being approximately 6 1/2 feet deep.

Arrangements are, however, being made with the Chinese Recreation Club to stage the exhibition at their pavilion at North Point.

Hong Kong's First Win In North

Shanghai Pack Goal In Second Half

GASH'S PENALTY KICK.

After ten minutes' play Hong Kong opened the scoring when Cheng dashed in from the right to get his head to a beautiful corner kick from Baldry. Gash, the Shanghai captain, equalised soon after when Pardoe had the misfortune to handle within the penalty area.

Shortly after Gash's equalising effort Bolton, in the twenty-fifth minute of the game, back-heeled a pass from Gash, and through Rodger unsighted, the ball entered the net to give Shanghai the lead. The Northern team's success was short-lived, however, for Cheng met a centre from Baldry with tremendous force to leave Chow standing helpless with a grand equalising shot.

Five minutes before the interval Darcy Chen, the Shanghai left winger, gained possession when unmarked and easily beat Rodger to give Shanghai the lead by 3 goals to 2.

CHENG SHIU-LONG.

There was only one team in the picture on the resumption. Hong Kong, combining excellently, ran rings round the Shanghai defence, but the shooting of the visiting forwards was very weak.

Carrying all before them from the kick off in the second half, the Hong Kong forwards swept down the field and scored the equalising goal when Wong Mei-shun put the final touches to an excellent movement. Only a very short while elapsed before Hong Kong gained the lead. From a perfect cross kick from Baldry on the left Howe got his head to the ball to score a spectacular and brilliant goal.

From now on it was a story of missed chances for the Hong Kong forwards, the Shanghai players being too occupied defending their own goal to be really dangerous.

IRISH MAZE GROWS TORTUOUSTariff War May Break de Valera*But Ominous Rumbling Heard In Dublin*THE FARMER'S PLIGHT

(By Clair Price.)

At his desk in the Government Buildings Eamon de Valera sits daily behind a large clay-yellow wall medallion of Michael Collins, the greatest and in many ways the most typical Irishman in principle—a Free Stater in fact; a Sinn Féiner who destroyed the civil life of the South during the guerrilla warfare against the English, and who gave side of the hybrid Anglo-Ireland of his life while attempting to strangle to-day, but the other side—the the Frankenstein of physical force sullen Irish farmer—remains almost which he himself had raised. The outside world may Valera is one on which a number of perhaps attribute to him some of Irishmen might have much to say the joviality of the Anglo-Irish, but that would be worth listening to, that can only be because the outside but having had their "troubles" the world has no other tag to attach to Irish have no desire to talk about him. In reality, he is a hard and melancholy man, immured with all them.

For ten years William T. Cosgrave his old resentments amid the as President sat at his desk beneath loneliness and the deadly monotony that medallion, carrying on Collins's of some isolated stone cabin as work of rebuilding a civil State in white as Cadiz, far out in a of the twenty-six counties and stamp-country side dotted with cattle but us' back from the comparatively ing out its inheritance of physical half emptied of Irishmen. force. Last Spring Mr. de Valera, Mr. Cosgrave's Department of succeeded him and one of his first Agriculture worked miracles toward acts was to remove the ban which improving his cattle, his sheep, his his predecessor had imposed on the pigs, his poultry, and butter and illegal Irish Republican Army. The bacon and eggs, and so enabled him men who shot Collins are now free, to get better prices in the English What the liberation of the I. R. By imposing their import political England, it has remained duties on Irish farm produce in as much a part of economic England order (presumably) to collect the as our own cattle-raising West is land annuities which Mr. de Valera part of the United States. Until has refused to pay, they launched a the English duties were imposed, the steamers which cross the narrow seas from Irish ports to English and Welsh ports carried practically all the farm produce (96 per cent. was the actual figure) that he sold abroad, bringing back on their return journeys the bulk (81 per cent.) of all the coal and industrial products that he had to buy abroad.

De Valera's position is not impossible that the English duties were intended to have exactly this effect with the object of driving Mr. de Valera out of office and bringing back Mr. Cosgrave. If this is their purpose, they may succeed in achieving it. Or, on the other hand, in view of the quick resentment of the Irish at anything which can be interpreted as "English dictation," they may give us the spectacle of funds being raised in New York and London this Winter for the relief of Irish distress. Whatever their ultimate effect may be, their immediate effect was to raise cheers for Mr. de Valera in the Dublin cattle market. Within a fortnight after they were imposed, the Dail made him virtual dictator of the Free State, with powers which would make a mere Mussolini blush.

Their effect has been carried even further than that. They have enabled the liberated Irish Republican Army to generate such a war spirit that legitimate criticism of Mr. de Valera by his political opponents has been met by the world "traitor." The use of this word, the ugliest in the Irish vocabulary, has startled the Irish mind into anxieties which eclipse even those of the tariff war. And this brings fresh air of the countryside into the political witches' caldron of Dublin. But tariff or not, Irish lads and lasses continue to flock aboard the emigrant ships, and their homeland is being depopulated.

"The sound of unlaboured fields like a judgment on the air: A human voice is never heard. The sighing grass is every- where— The sighing grass, the shadowed sky, The cattle crying wearily."

WISE & OTHERWISE*NO HOPE.

An octogenarian claims to have written letters to newspapers ever since he was sixteen. It is feared that he will never grow out of it now.

His Speech.

Mike: "Did ye ever speak before a large audience, Pat?"
Pat: "Fairly large, I did."
Mike: "An' what did ye say?"
Pat: "Not guilty."

True Love.

Wife: "You don't love me! The doctor says I must have a course of slimming and you won't let me. Unsympathetic brute!"
Husband: "Of course I love you, darling. I love you so much, I can't bear to lose an ounce of you."

Gnat Likely!

"The Gnu in Danger of Extinction," says a headline. Shall this popular little crossword animal disappear? Gno, gnever!—Los Angeles.

Firm.

"I hear your wife insists on going to Monte Carlo?"
"Yes, she is mad on it. But I put my foot down absolutely."
"So she's not going after all?"
"Well, not with my consent."

Worth the Money.

"Here's a ticket for the conjuring show, Maggie. When he comes to that trick where he takes a teaspoon of flour and one egg, and makes twenty oam'lettes, watch verra closely!"

Oh Yeah?

Among the train passengers were an elderly Highlander and a young lad. The former was holding a watch in his hand and was studying it with intense interest. Suddenly he seemed satisfied and he beckoned the ticket-inspector to him.

"What are you talking about?" said the aviator. "You had only one ride."
"No, sir," returned the passenger. "Ah, done had two—mah fuh and mah last."

Both Together.
A coloured man got his nerve together, and took a flight in an aeroplane. As he climbed out after the ride, he turned to the pilot and said: "Sub, Ah has to thank yuh for both dem rides."

"What are you talking about?" said the aviator. "You had only one ride."
"No, sir," returned the passenger. "Ah, done had two—mah fuh and mah last."

"Yesterday I had sciatoca."
"What wave-length?"

Giddy.

"Has your husband a large circle of women friends?"
"Circle, dear? It's a positive whirlpool!"

Fishing Etiquette.

Angler (describing fish that got away): "He was that long—oh, a whopper!"
"You shouldn't have rushed him. You should have played him!"
"Played him? When I go to fish I go to catch fish, not planers!"

Both Together.

How to Live.
A young man who wished to be a journalist wrote to an editor friend asking for advice.

"Dear Mr. Black," he wrote, "will you kindly tell me the type of magazine on which I am likely to reach a high position in a short time?"

"Dear Jack," ran the reply, "yes, a powder magazine, especially if you contribute a fiery article."

Confusing.

Neighbour: "Why is your car painted blue on one side and red on the other?"

Speedy: "Oh, it's a fine idea. You should just hear the witnesses contradicting one another!"

Her Treat.

Astronomer (to his young wife): "Congratulations, my dear. This is your birthday and I shall have a surprise for you to-night!"
Wife: "What is it?"

Astronomer: "At eleven-thirty to-night there will be a total eclipse of the moon!"

Cruel.

May: "My fiancé is telling everybody in India that he is coming home to marry the most beautiful girl in the world."

Edna: "Too bad, darling, after being engaged to you for such a long time!"

Their Aha!

Kind Gentleman (to little boy eating an apple): "Look out for the worms, sonny!"
Little Boy: "When I eat an apple the worms have to look out for themselves."

Urgent.

An English bishop received the following note from the vicar of a village in his diocese:

"My Lord! I regret to inform you of the death of my wife. Can you possibly send me a substitute for the week-end?"

DANZIG'S CONSTANT MENACE

Germans Protest Poles' Influence

"Free City" Is Focal Point Of Trouble

ECONOMIC ARGUMENT

(By William C. White.)

DANZIG, to-day, is a Free City. And the people of that city are as happy in their freedom as a broken-hearted widow is in hers. Beneath the many red brick spires of old St. Mary's Church, Danzig lies quiet. A few miles away the little waves of the Baltic break on a white silver beach. The green water of the inlets and estuaries, never troubled by storm, flows unhurried past the wharves of this ancient Hanseatic city.

An idyllic picture of a battle-field where, to-day, a fight that began a thousand years ago in the marshes of Eastern Europe goes on without cease. Only, to-day, the weapons have changed for those of modern diplomacy, in this age-old struggle between Teuton and Slav.

"A gem of a city," one German told me, "but a fatal gem, not to be possessed either by Germany or Poland without disastrous results. So Danzig to-day is a Free City." Yet Danzig is the focal point for trouble in Eastern Europe. East Prussia, the most conservative and reactionary province of Germany, demands that Germany take the city back.

Cut Away By Peace.

It was the peace conference at Versailles which severed Danzig from Germany and made her a Free City. That operation, in some ways, was only turning back a page of history, for Danzig had been more or less free from 1464 to 1793, growing wealthy on increasing commerce with all the Baltic and Russia, proud of her own flag, and jealous of her prerogatives. At times the city had been under the protection of the Polish kings, but with the second partition of Poland, in 1793, it became a part of Prussia. The German element in the population increased until 1918, when 97 per cent. of the 400,000 people in the city and its environs were German. Yet the peace conference, with its footnote of "the right of self-determination," had to consider seriously whether this city should be handed over to Poland.

All of Danzig's troubles are rooted in geography. It is the misfortune of the city to be situated at the mouth of the Vistula River, which flows through Central Poland, the nation's only connection by water with the Baltic. The peace-makers at Versailles restated Poland on the map, and one of President Wilson's fourteen points insisted that to Poland be given "free and secure access to the sea." The natural port for Poland was Danzig.

Protected By League.

Danzig was put under the protection of the League of Nations and a High Commissioner was sent there in residence. To guarantee Poland's "free and secure access to the sea," a substantial control over the economic life of the city was put into Polish hands. To-day the Poles control the railroads leading in and out of the city, and the customs. The Poles manage all foreign affairs and Danzig citizens carry Polish passports. Administration of the harbour is shared by the Poles and the citizens of Danzig. The Free City embraces all the territory for about ten miles around and manages affairs through an elected Senate. The 400,000 people in the territory of the Free City must raise in the city all the money necessary to carry on virtually the government of a State (including insurance for 80,000 unemployed), for no money comes from Poland except a share in the customs receipts.

Fear Poland.

The political quarrels which have marked the stormy course of Polish-

Danzig affairs arise from obvious causes: the population of Danzig, en masse, resents the power which Poland has in the city, and tries to obstruct it whenever possible, fearing that some day the Poles will seize the city. The city would vote overwhelmingly to return to the German Republic if given a chance. At the same time the Poles try to stretch to the utmost the powers which are legally theirs. Between German and Pole there is constant friction and suspicion.

Political friction has become acute in the past two years with the rise of Hitler's National Socialists in Germany. It is natural that many Danzigers should turn gladly to support a party that has for a slogan, "What was German must be German," and the growth of the Hitlerites to the position of the largest party in Danzig has seriously complicated Poland's problems. They have no desire whatever for any compromise in a necessarily delicate situation.

If Danzig is ever to be won, it must be won by force. In the meantime, the line between Pole and German extends through every part of Danzig life; the peoples seldom meet socially. Intermarriages are very rare. Danzig stays German, unhappy, traitor.

Economic Argument.

If ever politics fails to provide material for the endless arguments between Poland and Danzig, the field of economic relationships will supply plenty. Poland permits Danzig to import goods for her own needs, within quotas, duty free. The Poles accuse the good burghers of importing far more of many commodities than they need and of smuggling the balance across into Poland. Danzig replies that the Poles so carefully control imports that even the rightful needs of the city cannot be supplied without exceeding the quotas—and paying duties to Poland!

On all sides complaints—and 30,000 unemployed to add their voices to the chorus! "Poland wants to ruin Danzig," say the Germans. "When we are weak and feeble she will take the city."

Yet, in the midst of this seeming rigor mortis, comes an elf-like set of statistics. The port of Danzig is exporting 400 per cent. of the amount of goods sent out in 1913! The tonnage passing through the port has increased every year. To these figures the Poles point when accused of trying to strangle Danzig.

Air Harbour for London

The model of the St. Pancras and King's-cross district being shown at the Building Exhibition at Olympia is attracting considerable attention, chiefly because of the possibilities it holds for London to have an air-port which is really accessible.

The suggestion allows for a series of runways, a couple of hundred feet wide and half a mile long, on which the aeroplanes would alight and take off. Five million pounds, the estimated cost, seems a small amount for giving the city a useful air harbour, such as must, sooner or later, be provided.

A B.B.C. Event.

The inauguration of the new concert-hall at Broadcasting House recently was something of an event. It gave the public its first chance to experience something of the awe instilled by the red light, the scrupulous diction of the announcer and the general air of solemnity belonging to the broadcasting studio.

The microphone was the hero of the evening, and one admired the savoir-faire of Mr. John Coates, who, when he sang, mezzo, even drew closer to it and whispered confidentially in its ear.

Contrary to what rumour had led one to expect, the acoustics of the hall proved excellent. It rather reminds one of the lately built chamber concert hall in Brussels, which is described as the best in Europe.

Young Rulers

Is there anything more than a curious coincidence in the fact that the Latin countries are, with the single exception of France, ruled by young or middle-aged men?

The newly elected President of Mexico, General Abelar del Rodriguez, is only 38, and as such must surely be the youngest elected ruler in the world. Mussolini is 45, and Senor Zamora, the Spanish President, 55.

Compare with the youth of the new Mexican President and that of several other dictators in Latin America the venerable age of octogenarians like Hindenburg and Masaryk!

Russian Oil Agreements

Scepticism prevails regarding Soviet Russia's contribution to the forthcoming International Oil Conference in New York. In view of their absence from the recent oil conference in Paris, the Soviet representatives' consent to attend at New York caused, at first, considerable satisfaction. This, however, has waned since Moscow has succeeded in consolidating its position in the French market by an agreement with a French syndicate, comprising nine firms for the exclusive annual supply of half a million tons of crude oil for six years. A similar arrangement has been made between Russia and Turkish importers and another is being negotiated with Germany. The Russian delegates will go to New York with little wish to jeopardise these agreements.

Nobel Starters.

A newspaper in Stockholm is tipping Mr. John Masefield, the Poet Laureate, to win the Nobel Literary Prize for 1932.

With all the patriotism in the world one would not venture more than place money on our candidate. One's fancy would lead one rather to back M. Paul Valery, the French poet and critic.

To use the same jargon, Herr Stephan Georg, the German lyric poet, should not be overlooked. In spite of little folkies, such as using no capitals—which has an even more devastating effect in German than in English—he has written some fine poetry.

The Comtesse de Noailles and M. Maxim Gorky are also in the running.

On Chancerybury Ring

By the way, one wonders why the excavations of a Roman villa known to exist on this site of Chancerybury Ring, most conspicuous of Sussex landmarks, have never been pursued.

In 1809 much useful work was done and then abandoned, though the evidence of the villa was there, and Roman tiles can still be picked up in quantities.

The famous clump of trees, visible even from the North Downs, is not of great antiquity. The trees were planted by a neighbouring vicar in the middle eighteenth century, and he saw them grow to a fabulous maturity in his long life time.

ADVERTISING IS THE ART OF MAKING KNOWN!

EVERY piece of news in the press is advertising. Similarly every advertisement in the press is news. Commercial advertising is much more than making known; it is the business of publicly announcing something—a commodity, a service, an event—in a manner which enables the public to participate in the advantages offered in the announcement.

ITS PURPOSE IS NOT COMPLETED BY MAKING THE ANNOUNCEMENT

There must be an economic transfer. The public must be made to realise the value which the announcement offers and to take action.

BORDERERS DEFEAT CLUB BY 8 TO 3

Forwards Dominate
Good Game.

FERGUSON AND LEWIS
PROMINENT PLAYERS.

(BY TOUCH JUDGE.)

A rousing display of hard and keen Rugby was witnessed by a large crowd at the Valley yesterday when the South Wales Borderers beat the Club by a goal and a try (8 pts) to a try (3 pts).

Although the Borderers were definitely the superior team in first half of the game, a draw would have been a fair reflection of the play. The rally by the Club backs during the latter stages of the second half was especially meritorious.

No scoring took place in the first half, the defensive tactics of both teams being superb, but the second session of the game had scarcely opened before Walters scored a try for the Borderers, when he picked up in the loose near the Club line and dived over to open the scoring. Lloyd converted with a magnificent kick from a difficult angle.

Following this success, the Borderers again almost scored, Walters running down the wing at great speed to take a misjudged touch kick. He dribbled the ball over the line but failed to secure it before it went into touch.

The Club's chance to equalise came after Ferguson scored a well-earned try, but Rigg mislaid the kick. Full credit for the try must go to Ferguson, who snatched up the ball from a wild pass from Jenkins, which Rigg failed to gather.

The Borderers collected their remaining points shortly after, Hamilton going over for the try. Bad judgment on the part of Jenkins gave Hamilton the opening. The ball was punted out, and Jenkins had plenty of time to take it. He made the mistake of waiting for it to bounce, and was unceremoniously bundled out of the way when the Borderers' forwards reached him. In the dribbling movement that followed the ball bounced conveniently into Hamilton's hands, and he had little difficulty in crossing the line.

JENKINS WEAK

There was little to choose between the two full backs, although Grieve was the harder-worked of the two. His play was good and he gathered and found touch with unfailing regularity. Ferguson was the pick of the Club three-quarters, and was always dangerous with his determined running. Rigg gave one the impression of security, his handling and passing being sure. He took some awkward passes from Jenkins, who was the weak link in the line. Although the latter seemed to gain confidence in the later stages of the game, he was a mere passenger during the first half.

Lammert played strenuously, but was too well-marked to get away. He almost secured a good try in the second half when he ran up the wing, but he was bundled into touch near the corner flag.

With a slightly heavier pack, the Club forwards saw more of the ball in the tight scrums, while Hall-Thompson in the line-out secured the ball for the Club on most occasions. Millar and McElroy were the two most useful men in the pack.

LEWIS BRILLIANT

The forwards worked well together, but they were outclassed by the irresistible Borderers, and Macintosh was hard pressed to get the ball back to his three-quarters, often being smothered before he had a chance to pass.

The Borderers three-quarter line saw even less of the play than the Club line, their forwards dominating the game throughout. On the occasions when they did get going they made but little ground.

Martin was not at his best, but played a sterling game, while Lewis was brilliant. The latter saved an almost certain try in the first half when he outran Ferguson, and the latter had a clear field. A fine tackle brought the Club player down not far from the line.

Hamilton was among those who nearly scored a try in the first half, but he was again good tackling saved his points.

Hodkins and Stevens combined well, the latter being seen at the last, Grieve back in the line, the forwards line again after the try, and the Borderers' forwards saw even less of the play than the Club line, their forwards dominating the game throughout. On the occasions when they did get going they made but little ground.

HONG KONG LADIES' DEFEATED.

Saints And Recreio
Record Wins.

MAMAK MATCH POSTPONED.

A fast game of the hockey was witnessed on the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday afternoon when the St. Andrew's Club Ladies inflicted their second defeat on the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club, holders of the Cacer Clark Cup, winning by 3 goals to nil.

The Saints played a dazzling game, and from the commencement were on the aggressive. Their left wing, P. Gittins was in her best form, and combined well with M. Chinn to give the champions a defence many anxious moments. Hong Kong were virtually swept off their feet in the early stages, for within five minutes P. Gittins found the net three times to record the "hat-trick."

The second half was even more keenly contested, but both defences held out well. Many opportunities were afforded Hong Kong, shots from P. M. Harrop and M. Alun Jones being well cleared by R. Roso. At the other end, M. Bird was also on form clearing many first timers from the Saints forwards.

RECREIO BEAT HONG KONG LADIES "A"

At Bookunpoo the Club defeated Recreio Ladies gained a creditable 2-1 victory over the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club "A" eleven.

A. Alves, the clever Recreio forward who registered the first point against the Cacer Clark winners last season, and C. Botelho netted for the Recreio, while J. Dalziel replied for Hong Kong.

LADIES LOSE TO H. M. S. KENT

The "Y" Ladies met with defeat against a team from H.M.S. Kent at King's Park by 4 goals to 1, in a scrappy encounter. The "Y" fielded only eight ladies, and were forced to accept the services of E. F. Sells, of the Y.M.C.A. eleven, and a member of the Kent team. The sailors led at the interval by 3 goals to 1, B. Walker being responsible for the ladies' solitary point. M. Mason, at centre-forward, played a forcing game and combined well with the left wing, but sorely lacked support from the right.

Y. M. C. A. WIN BY ODD GOAL IN ELEVEN.

No less than eleven goals were registered in a scrappy game at King's Park in which the Y.M.C.A. "A" eleven defeated Royal Air Force by 6 goals to 5.

At the interval the Y led by the odd goal in seven. W. J. Brown brought his season's total to 32, claiming three of the Y's six goals, the other three being shared by G. Fowler (2) and R. Baldwin.

The "Y" were best served by their forwards their left wing, Brown, Fowler and Baldwin combining well.

MAMAK MATCH POSTPONED.

The Mamak Tournament hockey match arranged between the Radio Sports Club and the Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club yesterday afternoon, was postponed, and will be played off at Caroline Hill ground at 4.15 p.m. this afternoon.

THREE SEAMEN OFF C.P. LINER HELD IN JAPAN

Arrests Followed Fatal Accident.

BO'SUN LOST AT SEA.

Three Japanese coal coolies were killed when a life boat fell from the deck of the C.P.S. liner, Empress of Russia, at Nagasaki harbour. As a result of the accident three members of the Chinese crew were detained by the Nagasaki Police, but according to a message received by the local C.P.S. office yesterday morning, the men have now been released.

According to the crew of the ship, the matter is said to have preyed on the mind of the No. 1 bo'sun, Leung Ying, to such a degree that he jumped overboard during the voyage from Shanghai to Hong Kong. Three members of the Chinese crew were detained by the Water Police here yesterday, in order that enquiries might be made into the death of the bo'sun.

Captain A. J. Hoskins, master of the liner, in his report to the Police here, stated that at about 7.30 p.m. on November 25, when the ship was in Lat. 27.55 N., 121.43 E., between Shanghai and Hong Kong, the No. 1 Chinese bo'sun, named Leung Ying, alias Leung Kam-sing, aged 54 years, native of Pun Li, was discovered missing and is believed to have jumped overboard.

The accident in Nagasaki harbour is stated to have been due to a broken rope.

The men who were detained by the Japanese police are Tang Kam-hee, Kwok Yau and Leung Pak, while the three men who are assisting the police enquiry into the death of the bo'sun are: Leung I. O., Ho Kam-chuen and Lo Pat.

The preacher at the 11 a.m. service will be the Rev. E. W. L. Martin, of St. Stephen's College, Stanley, while the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan, S.C.F., C.E., will deliver the sermon at the evening service.

CAR STOLEN.

Mr. W. B. Finnigan, Registrar of the Hong Kong University, has reported to the Police that his motor, parked near the P. & O. building on Friday night has been stolen.

The Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., Colonial Secretary, has been appointed Chairman of the Licensing Board for a period of three years, with effect from November 17.

BRIDGE NOTES

BIDDING YOUR OPPONENTS' SUIT

BIDDING a suit already bid by the opponents was originally much condemned in the early days of Contract as artificial and conventional, but it is so commonly used now by first-class players that we must assume that it has become a recognised part of any bidding system. Players are, however, by no means unanimous as to what precise information such a bid should convey, and whether it is invariably a forcing bid or only semi-forcing. Most are agreed that it should indicate early control of the adverse suit by the holding of an Ace, Ace King or chicanes, writes Frank England in the Evening Standard.

My own view is that, made after a partner's original bid, it should be regarded as unconditionally forcing, indicating a game hand if made early in the bidding and a slam hand in the later stages. After a pass by partner it should be looked upon as an informative double necessitating one bid from partner only, as in this case partner may well have a worthless hand. Again, if made when partner has still to bid, it should indicate a game hand and that the bidding be kept open until a game is reached. In all cases it should guarantee early control of the adverse suit.

Vital Information.

There is no doubt that if judiciously employed this bid is often a vital factor in slam bidding because it gives information which no other bid can convey. Recently a correspondent sent me a hand which well illustrates this point.

South dealt and bid One Spade. North's and South's hands were:

North.
Spades: K, J, 10, 9, x; x, x, x
Hearts: x, x, x, x
Diamonds: None
Clubs: x

South.
Spades: A, Q, x, x
Hearts: A, J
Diamonds: J, x, x, x
Clubs: A, Q, x, x

West bid Two Diamonds, and I was asked what North should reply. Now, of course, there are several bids open to North—Four, Five, or possibly Six Spades, but the two latter are speculative if South has a minimum opening bid, and the former may miss a slam. North's best bid is Three Diamonds, as this tells South that no tricks will be lost in that suit and indicates at least a game, possibly a slam, hand. South then has no alternative but to bid Three No-trumps, and North then can bid Five Spades, a definite slam invitation, and South can then safely bid small slam, knowing now that he has no losing diamonds. If North jumped to Five Spades on the first round a small slam bid by South would be a pure gamble.

Several to whom I have shown this hand have objected that South might just as well have bid Five Spades over the Hearts at once, which North could have raised to Six. This is true, but there is a splendid chance of Grand Slam if North holds the King of Spades, and this is much more easily bid if he holds the King of Spades, and this is much more easily bid if North knows at once that South has not a loser in the Heart suit.

North.
Spades: K, 10, 9, 6, 4, 3
Hearts: A
Diamonds: None
Clubs: A, K, J, 7, 4, 2

South.
Spades: Q, 8, 5, 2
Hearts: J, 10, 8
Diamonds: Q, J, 9, 8, 2
Clubs: 10

Neither side vulnerable — love score—and the bidding in one room at duplicate bridge went:

North.
1 Spade
3 Hearts
4 Diamonds
6 Clubs
East.
2 Hearts
No
No
No
South.
2 Spades
3 Spades
4 Spades
6 Spades
West.
3 Diamonds
No
No

This bidding is interesting as North rebid Hearts and Diamonds, both the suits bid by the opponents. South was so weak that he could only respond by returning to Spades each time, and after his first raise the small slam is almost a certainty, but North was fishing for a grand slam, which was there if South held the Ace of Spades. The small slam was easily made by ruffing out the Clubs.

In this case bidding both opponents' suit had this disadvantage, however, that it prevented the opponents from doubling. In the other room only Diamonds were rebid by North, and West doubled the Six Spades. And who shall say he was wrong when East-West held between them A J of Spades, K Q of Hearts, A K of Diamonds, and Q x x x Clubs?

To-day's Bridge Tip.

North.
Clubs: K, x
South.
Clubs: Q, 10 x

South is playing No-trumps. West's opening lead is a small club. What card should South play from North?

Answer.

A small one, as this will ensure the suit being stopped twice. Playing the King will make only one trick if the lead is from the Jack.

ABOUT

SOAP

BEAUTIFUL SKIN is a woman's privilege and a joy to all who behold it. It is a thing to value and protect, to preserve and nourish at all times. But, particularly in youth and old age, when thoughtlessness or the strain of living use every ounce of the body's strength, should care be taken of woman's most priceless gift of beauty.

The women of India keep their marvellous skins pure and healthy by the use of soaps in which the oil and ash of sandalwood are the chief constituents. They have used these soaps for thousands of years, and the beauty of their hands and skins is famed far and wide. The same beauty can be yours to-day.

The sandalwood soaps from the Government Factory of the State of Mysore are now, for the first time, brought to Hong Kong. Mysore Bath Tablets and Sandal Toilet Soap are the two types, each specially prepared, the first for the whole body, the second for exposed parts of the face, arms and legs.

Use them; their soft rich lather and alluring perfume will charm your senses and beautify while they clean.

— Other Toilettries —
Every woman, to-day, needs a vanishing cream that will clean the pores and remove the dryness which the use of powder brings to the complexion. Pearlite Vanishing Cream is based on the same oils as Mysore Sandal Soaps.

SAINTS AND SERVICE CORPS BATTLE TO GOALLESS SOCCER DRAW

In a goalmouth scrimmage a Recreio defender was penalised for a foul. Davies was entrusted with the spot kick, but pushed the ball at Ogley, who was alleged to have moved, and Davies again pushed the ball forward at even a slower pace for Ogley to clear amid much cheering.

Ogley made good saves from Cormack, Mongar and Davies, taking the ball from Cormack's foot on one occasion in spectacular manner.

In the second half the Navy had matters much their own, the Recreio defenders were sorely tried and conceded another goal when Robinson ran through to score a splendid goal.

Ogley was again to the fore with good saves but was beaten yet again in the closing minutes by Mongar. The Recreio forwards made one attempt only in this half, Kinchin having to run out and clear from Santos.

Bdr. Art. Brown lined out the following teams:

Navy:—Kinchin, Gilbert, Stevens, Robinson, Sherris, Robertson, Mongar, Usher, Furkin, Davies and Cormack. Recreio:—Ogley, Marques, Gutierrez, Gomes, Figueiredo, Assumpcao, Bernardo, Santos, Rocha, Ribeiro and Remedios.

Second Division.

SAYER MISSES PENALTY & LOSES NAVY A POINT.

(By Scot.)

THE Navy in their match with the Lincolns were unlucky to be defeated by a solitary goal. A goal scored late in the first half was sufficient for the Lincolns to take both points, but the Navy forwards missed so many chances that, with better shooting, they should have put the issue beyond doubt in the first quarter of an hour.

The Lincolns' defence was very shaky in the early part of the game and it was then that the Navy should have driven home the advantage, but Benton mis-ed some glorious opportunities through dallying. Sayer played well up to point and Elgy was too closely watched by Worrall to have a chance. The Navy wing, Warne and Hudspeth, crossed the ball well, the latter showing a clean pair of heels to Potter whenever he received the ball.

Both sets of halves played well, Burroughs of the Navy side being outstanding, and there was not much to choose between the defences after Roden and Colcroft had settled down.

The Lincolns' forwards were much more dangerous near goal, Malpas led his line well and although the left wing had most of the play, Clayton was very dangerous. Hocquard put in some good runs and centres, but Burroughs subdued him well.

The Lincolns forwards, broke away and from a pass from Hocquard, Malpas scored from close in.

The second half was devoid of incident, both goalkeepers being called upon to save, but the Navy halves held a slight advantage. Sayer missed a penalty given for hands and at the other end Tott turned a good shot from Malpas round the post.

Navy:—Tott, Cowen, Fallon, Burroughs, Henshaw, Ashman, Warne, Benton, Elgy, Sayer and Hudspeth. Lincolns:—Denoon, Roden, Colcroft, Bacon, Worrall, Potter, Clayton, Barnes, Malpas, McGuinness and Hocquard.

SOUTH CHINA WELL LED BY PAU KA PING

(By Westerner)

ON a soft pitch the Club went down to the South China combination by 4 goals to 1.

The Club were in many respects much too slow for the quick thinking and nippy Chinese players, and their forwards were ill-fed, and as a result what constructive movements they undertook were self-made efforts. Boyd was a forceful leader, but was not at all well supported. Punccheon was a hard worker at centre-half, but found Pau Ka-ping and his colleagues too fast for he and his supporters to keep at bay. Of the backs, Potouloff was seen to the fore on many occasions in keeping well placed shots out of Fogwill's way.

The interval arrived with the Chinese a goal in the lead, Ng Pok-kiu having scored.

The Chinese who were well led by Pau Ka-ping, went away on the resumption to net their second goal when To Wai-hung ran in with the ball to lob it over the head of the advancing Fogwill.

The Chinese would have certainly scored many more goals had they kept aside more often. But Pau Ka-ping drew the defence well to find Kam Chung-lau unmarked, and the latter netted the third goal. An individual effort enabled Pau Ka-ping to score with a well directed kick. Close on time Boyd broke through and scored for the Club.

KOWLOON TOO SLOW FOR THE ATHLETIC.

(By Colonial.)

BY virtue of their smarter team work and better shooting abilities the Athletic, playing on their own ground within the Racecourse, fully deserved their two-nil win over Kowloon.

Opening a well constructed attack immediately after the kick off, the Chinese were soon a goal in the lead when Yeung Kam-po scored. Kowloon had their share of the game and soon retaliated, but their methods, in comparison with those of their opponents were unpromising, and they made use of their weight as against better footwork. Phillips should have made the scores level in a period of pressure that Kowloon enjoyed, but being slow, was robbed.

Haat, on the Kowloon right wing showed a good turn of speed for a veteran, and centred splendidly, only for V. White to miss good opportunities.

Before the interval the good work of Hoc Chy-yim, at centre-half for the Chinese, enabled his forwards to get away and Lo Chai-wan went through to score.

Kowloon had much more of the game during the second half but could make little headway against the sure kicking of the Chinese backs.

MISUNDERSTANDING ROBS SAINTS OF CHANCES.

(By Easterner.)

THROUGH some misunderstanding, several of the St. Josephs men turned up late, having gone to Sookunpoo for their match, with the result that, in an endeavour to get the game going, the Saints fielded a number of reserves and went down to the Artillery by 7 goals to 1.

The Gunners, who by their height and weight had every advantage over their opponents, scored early in the game through Hardy.

Snooks on the right wing sent in several splendidly-placed centres, but hasty kicking in front of goal spoiled numerous R. A. chances of scoring. Snooks, however, cut in to give Marques no chance with a fast rising shot, thus increasing the Gunners' lead.

With a number of R. A. raids coming from the left, Hyder, at right back for the Saints put in splendid work in stepping into the breach at the right moment with keen tackles and powerful clearances, but the Saints had a weak half back line.

Soon after the interval the Saints got away and were rewarded when Santos netted. The Gunners soon reversed the order of play and for a time penned the Saints in their own area. During this pressure Hardy, with two goals, brought his total to four for the match. With little resistance from the Saints defenders the Artillery continued to dominate the game until the close, before which Hopkins and Snooks added further goals.

MATTHIAS GIVES BORDERERS COMFORTABLE WIN.

(By Lower Deck.)

HAVING matters their own way throughout the match, the Borderers defeated the Eastern by four clear goals.

The Borderers were a goal to the good almost from the kick-off, when they broke through for Pritchard to score before the Eastern had settled down. Matthias was a lively winger on their left and was consistent with the number of shots he sent against either the post or crossbar.

A sudden burst of speed by Li Ting-choy saw play transferred for a time, but their success was only momentary, Mountford stepping in to the breach and clearing. The Borderers' defence had little to do in the opening half, and Lakeman, partnering Mountford in Suter's place, was not at all strangely placed. The half backs played their usual spirited game in subduing any Chinese attempts and keeping their forwards well up the field with well-time passes.

Before the interval Wallace succeeded in finding the net with a well placed shot.

Matthias, after several good centres which were not converted, cut in and netted the Borderers third goal soon after the interval. Matthias was the outstanding forward for the Borderers in this half, and was ably assisted by the wily Morris in forming a dangerous, left wing.

Marshfield, who filled Lakeman's position at inside right, was a hard worker, but he had not the positioning abilities of his predecessor. A well-planned movement saw Matthias again go through to score, bringing the Borderers total to four.

Third Division.

SAINTS HELD TO DRAW.

AT Chatham Road the Service Corps held the Saints to a goalless draw. The game throughout was clean and interesting, the spectators being shown good football for third division standard. The Corps throughout the early stages had the most of the play, but could never find time to shoot. The Saints' forwards had to drop back and help relieve the pressure, and for a time play hovered round the Saints' goal. A breakaway by the Saints was frustrated when Powell nipped in to prevent Haroon from shooting.

In the second half, with the advantage of the wind, the Saints gave the Corps' defence a gruelling quarter of an hour, but they managed to hold their citadel intact. A. M. Omar, the Saints' prolific goal-scorer had an opportunity to score but misjudged the flight of the ball, his shot trickling behind. A powerful clearance by Ward nearly opened the scoring, the high wind taking his shot right on to the Corps' goal, but the bounce took the ball over the bar.

Service Corps:—Abbott, Powell, Harmer, Joyce, Gray, Clarke, Alnsie, Sands, Hay, Flood and Craggs. St. Joseph's:—W. Lawrence, Thand, Ward, E. Lawrence, Reed, Rocha, T. Casullo, I. Castillo, A. M. Omar, Haroon and O. M. Omar. Referee:—Sgt. Joynson.

LINCOLNS TRIUMPH.

AT King's Park, the Lincolns beat South China by 3 goals to 1.

The Lincolns, settled down quicker than their opponents and in an attack on the Chinese goal a free kick was awarded them and Thompson opened the scoring. Ho Hong-ping just managing to tip the ball with his fingers. In the second half the Lincolns were easily the better of the two teams, and they had the Chinese continually on the defensive. The Lincolns showed better ball control and increased their lead through another free kick, Thompson netting.

A surprise breakaway by the Chinese saw them decrease the lead, a splendid run down by Yeung Moon-hon on the left, culminating with a splendid shot which gave Abbott very little chance. The Lincolns were awarded a penalty, but Clarke sent the ball over the bar. Evans, however, brought the Lincolns' total to three.

BORDERERS' NARROW WIN.

AT Chatham Road a high wind and a light ball was responsible for the Borderers recording only a 2-1 victory over the Radio. Play was not up to a very high standard, there being too much mis-kicking on both sides. The Borderers opened the scoring through Fortey, after a scramble in front of the Radio goal. Nelson of the Borderers was the outstanding player in the attack, and, after having had hard luck when attempting two solo efforts, he increased the lead for the Borderers. A gap in the Borderers' defence was responsible for the Radio bringing play into the Borderers' area, and Tavares was responsible for their solitary point.

FIGUEIREDO ORDERED OFF.

AT King's Park the Signals defeated the Recreio by the odd goal in five.

The game was spoiled by the wind and the players losing their temper. A bad blunder on the part of Xavier and Oliveira let Convey through to open the scoring for the Signals. Campos scored the equaliser, and Marques gave the Recreio the lead when Cook fumbled the ball.

Rough play began to take a hand in the second half, and unfortunately for the Recs, Figueiredo was given marching orders. The Signals bucked up and Convey was responsible for bringing the scores level, and Cord scored the winning point.

Signals:—Cook, Higginbotham, Jones, Brown, Neale, Collins, Lomas, Oliphant, Convey and Bryce. Recreio:—Barraclough, Oliveira, Xavier, Lima, McIntosh, Remedios, Marques, Campos, V. Xavier, Barros and Figueiredo.

TAIKOO CONCEDE PENALTIES.

TAIKOO, again met with a severe defeat, when they went under to the Athletic's third string to the tune of seven clear goals.

They were handicapped from the kick-off, only holding three forwards, but their defence could not cope with the alert and well constructed movements of the Athletic, who were ably led by Li Bing-shu. Cheung Moon-wing was the first to call upon Tong Hoo-kin to clear his charge, but this player had the satisfaction of opening the scoring when he converted a penalty kick for a foul within the area.

The Athletic went further ahead through another penalty kick, taken by Chin Him-tong, after the referee had, with some trouble, cleared the goalmouth of the crowd.

Hui Yu-kwong (2), Li Bing-shu (2) and Ip Yan-poi added further goals, and it was only the splendid play of Tong Hoo-kin that kept the score below double figures.

MOTORING SECTION

HONG KONG, NOV. 27, 1932.

EXHIBITION VISITORS ARE THRILLED.

"In The Ditch" At Michigan Fair.

FORD CAR DEMONSTRATION.

More than 75,000 visitors to the Ford Motor Company exhibit at the Michigan State Fair during September were the company's guests on test rides in Ford V-8 cars around the first special demonstration track ever built in the Fair Grounds.

The test which attracted most attention from riders and sight-seers alike came near the conclusion of the ride where the cars were run up an inclined platform which tipped them at a sharp angle, such as they would assume if forced into a highway ditch. Left wheels remained on the ground but the right wheels were elevated 18 inches, yet the efforts of two strong men failed to upset the cars.

The track was built of crushed stone and was kept in condition by a steam roller. At the inception of the ride, the unusual acceleration of the cars, due to their relatively low power-to-weight ratio, was demonstrated. Next they were driven over a railway crossing, where the rails were raised two inches above normal, and over a rough "washboard" road, to show the comfortable riding qualities resulting from the new transverse spring design and the automatically-controlled double acting shock absorbers.

"Jacking Test" Thrill.

The cars then were driven in high gear at a speed of only 10 miles an hour up a long 12-degree ramp, which simulated a steep hill, to show the smoothness of the engine under this unusual driving load. On the downgrade from the ramp, drivers demonstrated the positive action of the brakes, and the ease with which the cars could be brought to a quick stop in an emergency.

Approaching the "jacking test" where the cars were driven on the inclined platform with the right wheels raised high above the ground, riders were first assured that the test was perfectly safe, despite the spectacular angle at which the cars were inclined.

When the cars reached the top of the platform attendants first opened and closed the doors to emphasize the freedom from body distortion even at the sharp angle of inclination. Then three strong men pushed against the car roofs to demonstrate their inherent stability even in such a position.

INVENTORS GRABBLE WITH CAR THIEF.

British Wizards On Modern Problem.

British inventors are grappling with the car-thief problem.

Never was more concentrated ingenuity on view than at the display of "anti-theft" devices at the International Exhibition of Inventions in the Central Hall, Westminster.

Who could defy the big sign, "STOLEN!" which flashes on to the back of a car, while a bell rings shrilly, if any unauthorized person should be so ill-advised as to make an attempt at theft?

Or the invention which causes a huge siren to blow as soon as the wrong hand starts to steer the motor away?

Another device cuts off the ignition, puts the brakes on, fastens the doors, disconnects the lighting system, locks the gear lever, and seals the bonnet, whenever the car is left unattended.

Flit the poor car thieves! Meanwhile, a decrease of more than 20 per cent. is reported in the number of cars stolen in London.

This decline dates from the introduction last May of the Order permitting the locking of vehicles when left parked.

Flit the poor inventors!

Special Patrols For Roads

A suggestion has been made to "The Autocar" by Mr. George Wilson, deputy general manager of Shell-Mex B.P. Ltd., that a corps of what he terms special magistrates patrolling the roads in cars driven by uniformed constables might do much to reduce the number of accidents caused by dangerous or thoughtless driving.

Brondly, Mr. Wilson's idea is that a magistrate such as he has in mind would be selected for this class of work on the basis of his knowledge of motoring matters and ability to determine what is, and what is not, dangerous driving. He would have power to admonish and, if necessary, endorse on the spot the licence of any driver found guilty, in his opinion, of inconsiderate driving.

In certain instances a motorist so dealt with who felt that justice had not been done would be able to appeal to a court for a final decision.

Shanghai Party Treks To Nanking

Two Cars Blaze 365-Mile Trail To Capital

NEW HIGHWAY OPENED

WITH the official opening of the Shanghai-Hangchow highway a new era has been launched for the motoring public of Shanghai.

A godsend to the Shanghai motorist, it is a blessing, too, for the motor car operator in Hangchow, the capital of Chekiang Province, and Nanking, the national capital, which thus has been placed within comparatively easy reach of this city by the addition of the Ming-hong-Hangchow link. For the people of the many smaller cities, towns and villages along the route, the completion of the new highway is an event of immeasurable importance, heralding as it does the advent of an era of more rapid development, greater commerce and added prosperity.

Paradise For Motorist. The pioneer trip made in two Plymouth automobiles on September 27, 28, 29 and 30 by Mr. Mark L. Moody, president and general manager of Mark L. Moody Federal Inc. U. S. A. brought home forcibly to every member of his party that Minghong has been converted into the gateway to what without exaggeration may be termed a Shanghai motorist's paradise. Stretches of road miles in length, strips of ribbon extending beyond the range of one's vision; highways of adequate width; roads in good condition and of a standard that is amazingly high; these—and the indescribable delight of encountering range after range of hills and mountains, scenes of surpassing beauty and tranquillity, these and more have been made the Shanghai-Hangchow link by the new highway.

And as the word spreads, there will be a stream of traffic poured in ever-growing volume upon that road. A boon to the motorist, a mighty stimulant to the automobile dealer and his associates, the man who sell gasoline, motor oil, tires and automobile accessories, the highway links Shanghai with Nanking and paves the way for tremendous business activity in the ranks of the automobile dealers of these cities, Hangchow and Nanking. In addition to extending the possibilities of greater trade in these cities, it has provided new markets in the cities and towns along the route.

CLEANING MOTOR CUSHIONS.

Leather motor cushions which have become greasy or drab-looking may be considerably freshened up if they are treated with the following mixture. Boil half a pint of oil and allow it to become cold. Add half a pint of vinegar to the oil and mix thoroughly together. Damp a flannel with the mixture and apply it to the soiled cushions, rubbing in gently with a circular movement. Finally polish with a clean rag. Handbags are much improved by an application of the oil-and-vinegar mixture, as well as greasy leather chairs and suitcases.

these cities, Hangchow and Nanking. In addition to extending the possibilities of greater trade in these cities, it has provided new markets in the cities and towns along the route.

Plymouth Pioneers. To the Plymouth, and to Mr. Mark L. Moody, who sponsored the test trip and thus provided convincing proof of the quality of the road, must go much credit. And to Plymouth is due great credit for the record journey between Hangchow and Minghong which was accomplished in the fast time of two hours and fifty-eight minutes.

The idea of the Shanghai-Hangchow-Nanking round trip was conceived by Mr. Moody on Sunday, September 25. It actually had been there in Mr. Moody's mind for a long time. He had dreamed of it often. He had given it thought oftener, waiting, waiting for the time to come when the idea could be translated into action.

Day of Preparation. Hearing that the road had been completed although sections still were under repair, Mr. Moody spent some time that Sunday investigating the situation at Minghong. The highway terminal on the south bank had not been completed. In fact, a small army of labourers were building both the jetty and the road approaching it. But beyond the terminal lay a newly-finished road. On the near bank, the north, no facilities were available for the transportation of cars across the river.

Mr. Moody saw possibilities, did some lightning-like mental acrobatics and had made his decision. He would move at once—and be first! On Monday the word was relayed to a few of his business associates, and invitations extended to representatives of the press. Two cars, standard Plymouth sedans, would make the trip and start from the Mark L. Moody show rooms at the corner of Avenue Edward VII and Bracken Road early the next morning. That Monday was a busy one, but nightfall saw the preparations completed and the way paved for the trip which commenced early on the morning of Tuesday, September 27.

Four Days On The Road. The schedule Mr. Moody drew up covered four days as he proposed to proceed at a leisurely pace. The first day was to take the party to Hangchow, the second to Nanking, the third back to Hangchow and the fourth home to Shanghai. The schedule was adhered to and before seven o'clock Tuesday morning, the entire party was assembled at Mark L. Moody's show rooms. Nine men made up the group. They were:

Mr. Mark L. Moody, president and general manager of the automobile distributing concern bearing his name.

Mr. Allan B. Forrest, service superintendent at the Mark L. Moody service station.

Mr. S. T. Ying, Chinese sales manager for Mark L. Moody.

Mr. F. Y. John, Chinese sales manager for Mark L. Moody.

Mr. K. Y. Duff, of the Mark L. Moody sales staff.

Mr. Y. P. Wang, managing director of the China Times.

Mr. Cal. Hirth, of the North China Daily News.

Mr. A. L. Meyer, managing editor of the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury.

Mr. Ting Kwei-tang, photographer.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more.

Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.

So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

TRIUMPH CAPTURES AUSTRALIAN CUPMr. R. G. Tucker Wins Annual Classic.

One of the most coveted trophies for which motorists "down under" can compete is the Australian Championship cup, which is awarded annually to the member of the Light Car Club of Australia who has gained the greatest number of points in reliability trials and speed contests throughout the year.

For the 1931-32 season, just concluded, this cup has been awarded to Mr. R. G. Tucker, driving a triumph Super Seven. Mr. Tucker, who is a well-known figure in motor racing circles throughout Australia, was successful in the four largest reliability trials and also won several hill-climbs.

CALM VIEW REQUIRED IN ACCIDENTS.Education Urged For Road Users.

Motorists are the first to deplore the heavy toll of road casualties, but they will be, also energetic in deprecating panic legislation to deal with a problem that has, in varying degrees, been with us since the very early days of this century. That there are far too many road accidents is admitted by everybody, but does not mean that undue attention should be paid to those who would like to see all users of mechanical road vehicles "put in iron."

To reinstate the speed limit for private cars and motor cycles—a remedy suggested in certain quarters—would be utterly futile. Its removal was not, as the pessimists were loud in asserting that it would be, followed by a great increase in highway casualties. As a matter of fact, official observations showed conclusively that the standard of care in driving became higher rather than lower, possibly because of the tightening up of the law in the matter of dangerous driving. What is required in the opinion of "The Autocar," is education of all road users—education which is needed just as much for fifteen as for fifty miles an hour.

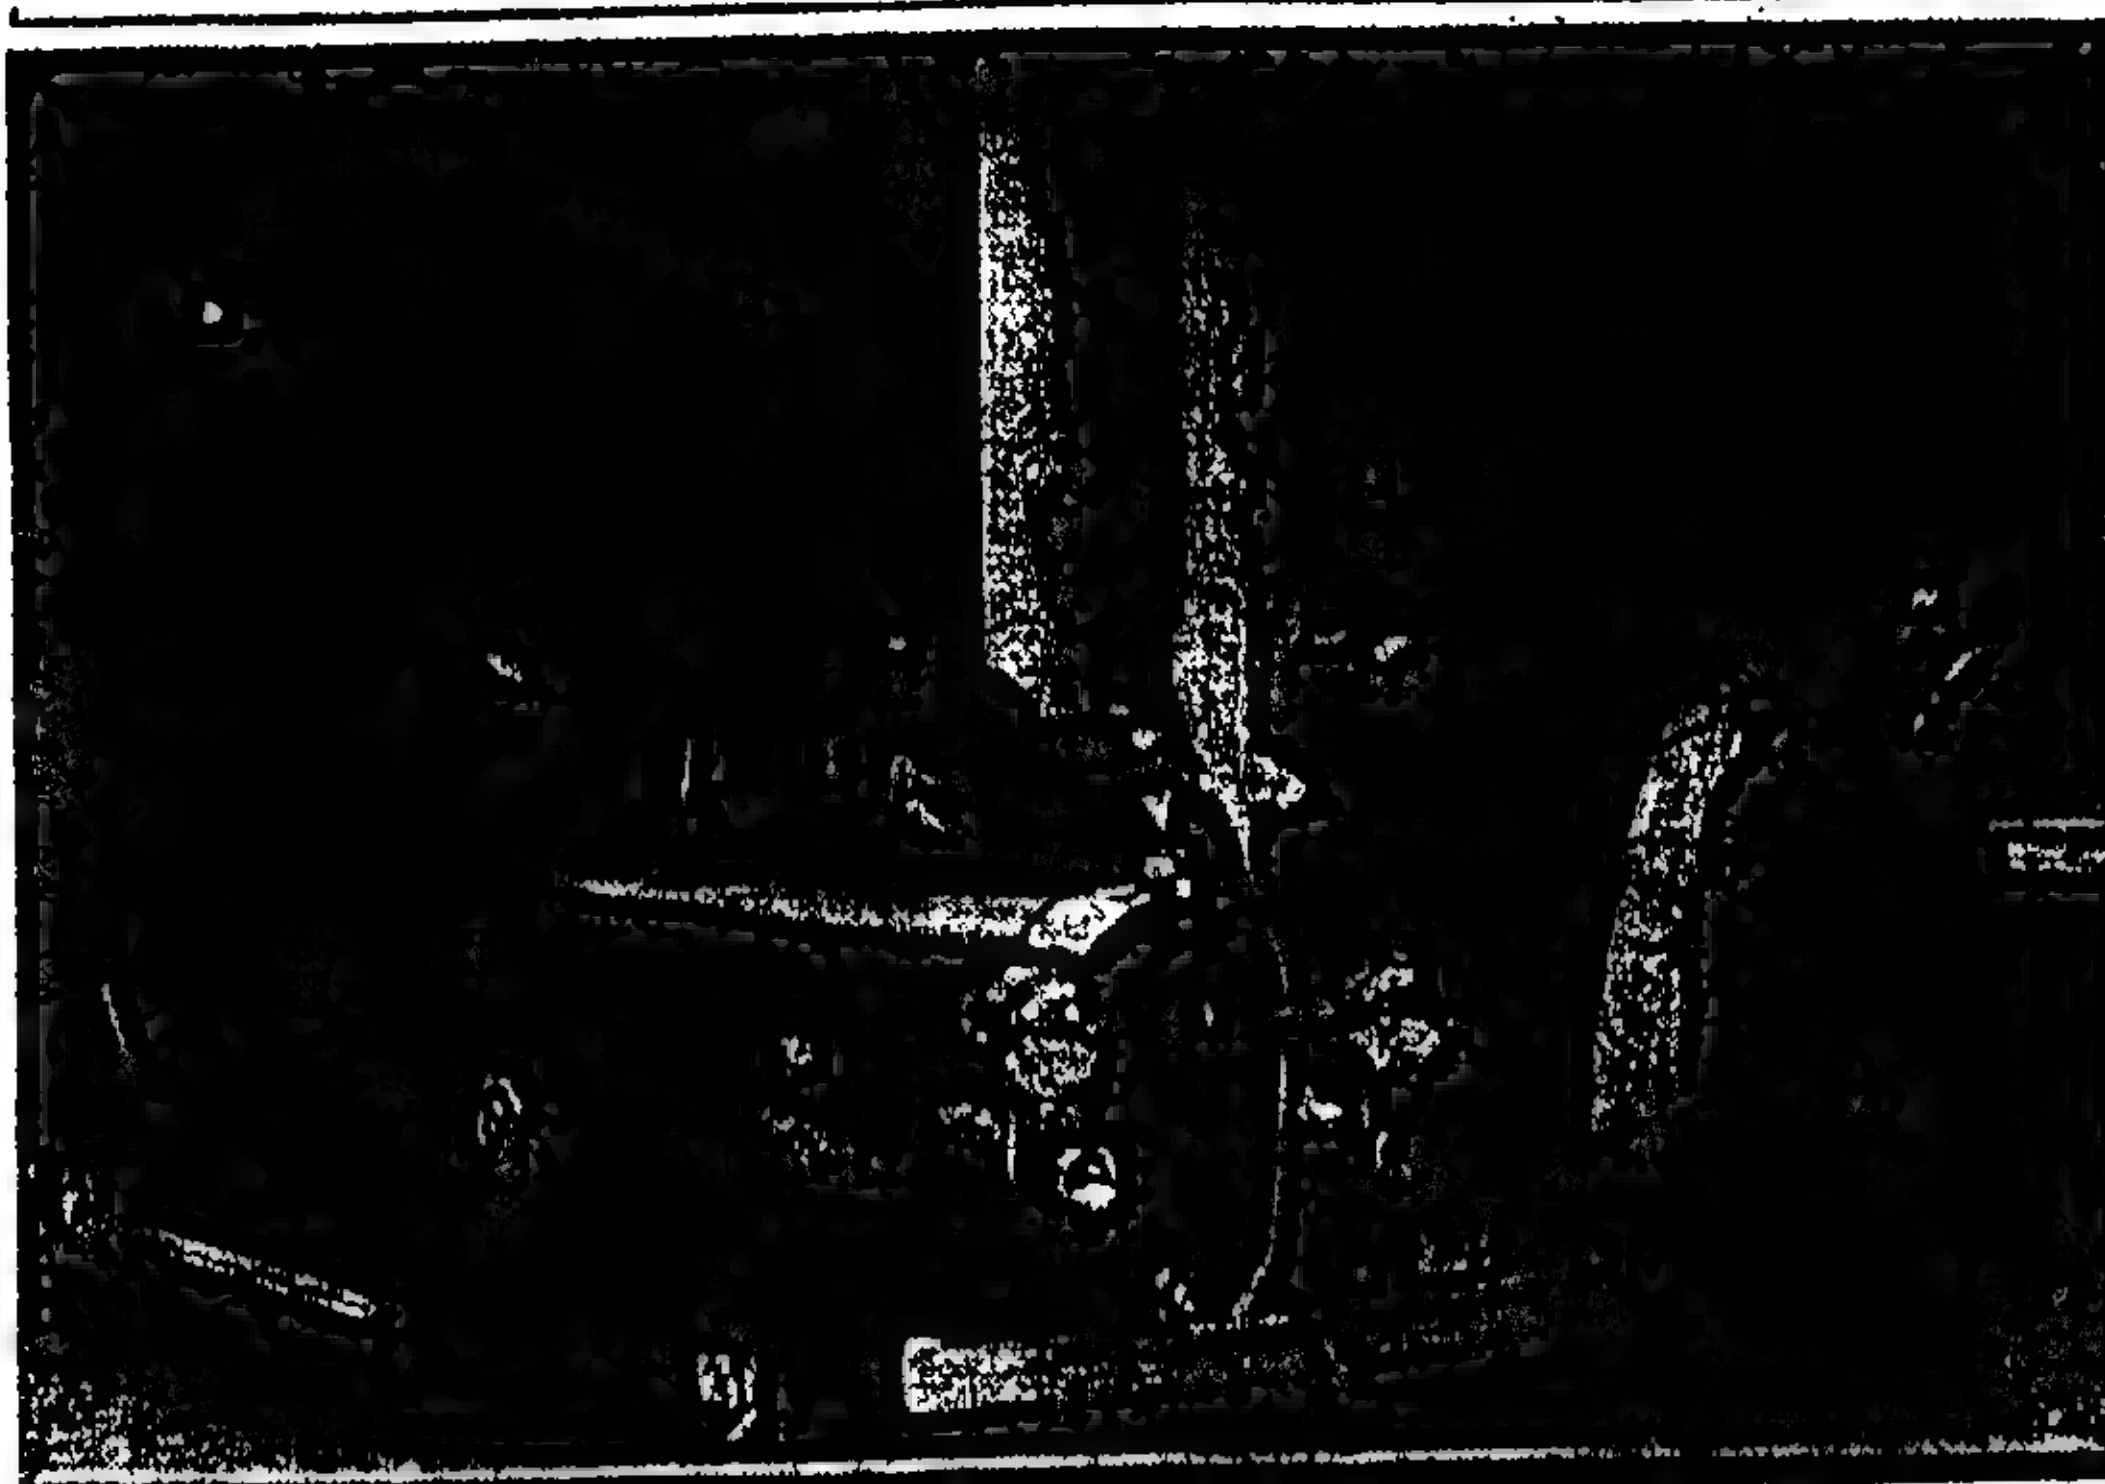

This education cannot be instilled in a moment. Actual practice on the road is essential before anything like perfection is attained; but there is hard common sense behind the argument that driving licences to-day are too easily obtainable. For many years there has been a strong section of motoring opinion in favour of some examination for licence applicants. The objections have been two—expense and the feeling that a mere test of driving forward and reversing would be no safeguard against reckless behaviour.

The time, however, has come for this matter to be reviewed. Expert driving of a "showy" character is not necessary, but common sense in starting from a kerb, turning to left or right, stopping, signalling, and generally considering the requirements of other road users is of vital importance.

SOVIET OIL IN CANADA.

Soviet oil is being imported into Canada, 9,000 tons of crude oil having been brought to Montreal from the Black Sea. The oil is to be refined in Canada in competition with the Canadian oil companies. Protests are likely to be made to the Federal Government.

"FLYING SQUAD" TO WAR ON BANDITS.Sir Malcolm Campbell Chief Of Volunteers.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the holder of the world's motor speed record, is to become chief of a volunteer Flying Squad. He is to be sworn in as the Chief Inspector of the newly-formed Borough of Rolgate Special Constabulary Flying Squad. This new squad will be used when fast cars are needed—as in cases of serious crime, or in the pursuit of motor bandits. But on every occasion uniformed officers will accompany the squad.

AUTOMOBILE JUNK YARDS VANISHING.

Those last resting places of automobiles known as junk yards are fast vanishing from the Connecticut, U.S.A., landscape, to believe a report emanating from that State's Department of Motor Vehicles. The information is imparted that whereas three years ago there were some 400 of these eyecore burying grounds, now there are almost too few to count. The number dropped from eighty-one in 1929 to sixty-nine in 1930 and to fifty-two last year—all the result of State legislation requiring proprietors to obtain licenses.

STOPPING DISTANCE VITAL KNOWLEDGE.New York Experiment Of Interest.

Interest in the problem of proper stopping distances for motor vehicles was stimulated recently by a new regulation issued by Police Commissioner Mulrooney. This was to the effect that the handbrake on an automobile or truck should be able, by itself, to stop the vehicle in fifty feet at twenty miles per hour.

In recent years there has been a serious increase in rear-end collision accidents. There are two fundamentals of good driving involved.

First, drivers of motor vehicles do not realise how fast their cars cover ground. At twenty miles per hour any vehicle, regardless of its size or weight, covers 29.55 feet per second; at thirty miles per hour, 44 feet per second, and at forty miles per hour this distance becomes 58.66 feet per second.

The second consideration is the distance required to stop a vehicle and this varies with the speed and the condition of the brake mechanism.

The stopping ability of four-wheel service brakes may be classified as follows:

15 to 18 feet, excellent.
18 to 20 feet, good.
20 to 22.2 feet, poor.

More than 22.2 feet, defective. These distances are at a speed of twenty miles per hour, which is the universally accepted testing speed.

Vehicles with two-wheel service brakes must stop in less than 43.8 feet.

DIESEL APPROVED BY NOTED SPEED ACE.Kaye Don Has His Cheapest Ride.

Brooklands, Eng. Kaye Don, the British automobile and speedboat racer, stopped out of a sleek-built racing-car here recently, brushed back his tousled hair and said briskly: "Well she hurries along alright, believe me. And I don't suppose I've ever had a cheaper ride in my life!"

He addressed his remark to C. L. Cummins, the United States designer of the car in which they had just done three laps, touching over 90 miles an hour. The automobile was a Diesel-engine one which Cummins was demonstrating to the British and foreign press.

Record Set At Daytona. Geared down at the time for ordinary road use, it had been driven by Cummins at Daytona last year at 100.75 miles an hour, a world's record for Diesel cars.

Kaye Don's observation about the cheapness of his ride struck a cardinal point in the car's favour. In the course of a 4,000-mile tour of the Continent, Cummins averaged 86 miles to the gallon of fuel, and his total fuel bill was less than G.$10, at par rate of exchange.

Economy Startling. In the five hundred mile race at Indianapolis last year, furthermore, Cummins maintained an average speed of 86 miles an hour without once stopping to refuel, the first time such a feat had ever been achieved.

To illustrate that the same economies applied to stock cars, Cummins noted that two years ago a heavy seven-passenger limousine, Diesel-engine, was driven 792 miles at a total fuel cost of only G.$1.25 and more recently a heavily-loaded truck went from coast to coast in the United States (a distance of 8,200 miles) at an average speed of 88 miles an hour and at a total fuel cost of less than G.$12.50.

VIENNESE NIGHTS

You Will Remember Vienna.

As the years roll on,
After youth has gone,
You will remember Vienna!

Nights that were happy
and hearts that were free.

All joined in singing a sweet melody.

When your race is run,
Whether lost or won,
You will remember Vienna!

You will recall evenings in May,
Sweethearts who came
and vanished away.

Whence did they come?

Where did they go?

Vienna will never let you know.

I Bring a Love Song.

I've been trying hard to find a way
Of telling you just how I feel.
Now, at last, that I've designed
a way,
My dearest, hope I would reveal.

From the music in my heart.

My pen has set apart
A symphony of sighs
How far my dreams pursue,
How high my fond hopes rise.

I bring a song, only a love song,
Shy as a day in spring,
Trying to tell you all that it knows.

All that a heart dare not speak,
songs may sing.

Born in the moonlight, fed by caresses.

Our song should never die.

Keep it caressed, dear,
Hold it always to your breast,
dear.

Don't let our love song die!

VIENNA, birthplace of romance — where desires are fulfilled today, and tomorrow never comes—where twinkling feet and tinkling glasses echo to melodies of love. Could romance born of such inspiration ever die?

So strange! So great!
So overwhelmingly

The Story.

Elsa, daughter of a Viennese cobbler, is tricked into marriage with Franz, a rich and titled young officer, while her heart is with Otto, a poor drummer whose ambition is to write great music. In despair, Otto goes to America with Gus a comical and practical friend who becomes a millionaire. After ten years,
Elsa and her titled husband visit
New York. While at the opera
she recognizes Otto as a fiddler.

They later plan to go away together, but, discovering that he has a wife and son, Elsa returns to Vienna with her husband.
Forty years later Elsa is taken by her granddaughter to hear the symphony of her young American sweetheart. Elsa recognizes the old melody and finds that the young composer is the grandson of Otto. The young folks lead Elsa to her favourite place in the garden
under a tree which blooms again and she in imagination hears her lover sing the old song.

Here We Are.

Here we are! Here we are!
I'm with you and you're with me!
Don't we make a happy pair?
Here's a moon in the sky!
You like moons, and so do I!
Don't we make a happy pair?
Here we are together
With that moon up in the sky!
I could do without that moon,
But without you I'd die!
That's why we're here.
Here we are.
I love you and you love me!
Don't we make a happy pair?

A SPECTACULAR AND DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL COMEDY
FEATURING BRITAIN'S AND BROADWAY'S FAVOURITE STAR

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS:

This picture, produced by Herbert Wilcox, is one of the finest films yet made in this country.

"Good Night Vienna" has a good, romantic story, a brilliant cast, beautiful Viennese settings, while George Posford's very attractive musical score contains two or three numbers destined to become best sellers.

Daily Mirror.

"Good Night Vienna" is a sprightly, engaging show, which I think you will like. It is an entertainment for a Spring mood, and dances cheerfully along on waves of irresponsible humour.

Evening Standard.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS:

Perhaps the best musical film which has been produced in this country. The only other comparable to it was "Sunshine Susie."

Mr. Herbert Wilcox has transmuted the story into one of the most attractive and well-directed films which have yet come from a British studio.

Mr. Jack Buchanan has never shown to better advantage or acted better in any film either in this country or America.

He is better in Mr. Herbert Wilcox's "Good Night Vienna" than he was in Lubitsch's "Monte Carlo."

It is international in type, it is melodious in its music, it is extremely well acted, and, above all, it is admirably directed, with movement, with beauty, and with an unfailing sense of humour.

"GENT" OR "GENTLEMEN" WHICH?

Is "gent" a naughty, inferior word?

When Paramount named George Bancroft's latest picture, now showing at this Theatre, "Lady and Gent", it started something.

Was inelegance or coarseness implied by the use of "gent"? Was a humorous connotation intended? Or did the makers of the film merely mean to give their production a hearty, true-American flavor?

Whatever they intended, the five-century-old controversy over use of the word goes on. Dr. Frank Vizetelly, eminent specialist on the English language, would probably denounce it as inelegant. H. L. Mencken, editor of "The American Mercury" and author of a large treatise upon the language of Americans, would probably uphold it. There are hosts of other orthographers who take definite stands in the camps of either one or the other of these leading protagonists of to-day's spoken and written language.

It all started way back about 1550, when playwrights of that time, in writing out their manuscripts, inscribed, "First Gent.—" "Second Gent.—" etc., using "gent" as an abbreviation for "Gentleman".

The New English Dictionary, by J. A. H. Murray, traces the use of the word by various prominent writers, and shows that there were times when "gent" was far from vulgar. There were other times when "gent" was considered highly undesirable, rude, and offensive.

This dictionary says that the word "gent" is "now only vulgar—as applied to men of the vulgar and pretentious class who are supposed to use the word. About 1840 its use became regarded as a mark of low breeding".

Yet William Makepeace Thackeray, one of the greatest of English novelists, wrote in 1842, "Gents—an affectionate diminutive, is at present much in use among commercial persons".

In 1847 the following appeared in the Sporting Magazine:

"The poor Indian on Farnham Common had little to thank the gents of the hunt for their gallantry." "Gents" of the hunt, indeed, surely the word must then have implied men of social position!

Another authority, Barrere and Leland's dictionary of Slang, Jargon, and Cant, says the word "gent" became popular about 1847, and that it meant a "dressed fellow". It originated from "tallor's advertisements".

Cassell's New English Dictionary defines "gent" as a vulgarity, "would be gentleman".

Still another definition is gleaned from both the Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia, and Roget's Thesaurus. They agree in calling "Gent" a word that is "vulgar and (or) humorous".

GEORGE BANCROFT

George Bancroft got his forte for stalwart bluster by deserting his books when in his teens, and adventuring forth from his native Philadelphia to join the navy.

Bancroft liked the red-blooded sailor's life—and stuck, through the Spanish American war, the Philippine Rebellion and the Boxer Rebellion. Off-hours from duty he organized minstrel shows among his fellow gobs. A volunteer dive under the hull of the battleship Oregon in Peking, China, got him an appointment to Annapolis. But Bancroft yearned to continue his stage activities—and left the Naval Academy for Broadway, where he gained recognition in vaudeville and in such plays as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine", "Paid in Full" and "Old Bill, M.P."

Broadway led to Hollywood. Bancroft's first film part was that of a laughing mountaineer-villain in "Driven". He thus established a new type of "bad man" character, and was called upon to reproduce it many times. His "more recent films are "The Mighty", "Ladies Love Brutes", "Rich Man's Folly", "The World and the Flesh" and "Lady and Gent", current at this Theatre.

Bancroft is six feet, two inches tall; weighs 195 pounds; has heavy dark brown hair and blue eyes; is married.

WYNNE GIBSON

Born in New York, Wynne Gibson was known as Winifred until her rambunctious playmates shortened it to Wynne. As a girl, Wynne played hard and showed a predilection for gym classes a distaste for the bookish things.

Therefore, her first job, as a file clerk in an insurance office, began to pull after six months. When a former school chum got connected in the chorus of a Broadway show, Wynne was fired with the ambition to do likewise. Before long she was dancing in the "line". She advanced to specialty dancer, star in revues and legitimate Broadway shows—with the indulgent approbation of her mother and her father, one of New York's leading business efficiency engineers.

After parts in "Little Jesse James" and "When You Smile", her rising star waned during a succession of unfortunate "breaks". But she came back strong in "Jarnegan", with Richard Bennett in 1929, and in her first movie, "Nothing But the Truth", with Richard Dix. Her work in "The Gang Buster", with Jack Oakie, brought her a Paramount contract. Followed "The Strange Case of Clara Deane"—and now, "Lady and Gent", current this theatre.

Wynne Gibson is five feet, two inches tall, has light brown hair and gray-green eyes. Although she dines on whatever she wishes, whenever she wishes, her weight has remained at 103 pounds for the past ten years. She loves coffee and drinks quarts of it every day.
